

DOL NEWS

HELLOOOOOO everybody and Welcome to DOL News! I'm Jonathan Creel and let's get right to business.

Two words.

Game. Blouses.

Interleague matchup was the theme of Week 6 and the Blouses division separated themselves as the the dominant league, going 5-1 on the week.

The defending champion, Ashton Jernigan was the lone savior for the Shirts division as he slid past Whitson's Bjoern to be Wild squad in a low scoring, 10-point affair.

The Game of the Week between bitter rivals Taf and Will in the Battle for Apollo's Shorts went as per status quo.... Wait I'm sorry.. this just in... apparently since questions have arisen between the trade between Ashton and Taf last week and rumors that Taf is actually running Ashton's team for him, I've been asked to refer to him as "Taf-Train"... Taf-Train reeled off his 7th straight win over Will and will retain Apollo Creed's shorts in his trophy case for another year. You have to go all the way back to WEEK 1 of 2008 to find the last time Will defeat Taf-Train in any capacity. (Will ended the 2008 season 2-11 for the year). The loss hands Will his 3rd of the season and throws the Shirts division in to a 4-way tie for first place with the fifth and sixth place teams only 1 game back. Taf-Train remains atop the league standings, tied with CreelHath for the division lead and #1 overall.

We caught up with T-Train after the game:

"Seven straight... it FEEEEEEELLLLLSSSSSSSS GOOOOOOOOOOOOODDDDDDDDD (bruce almighty). Hey Will? What did the five fingers.... Say to the face??"

CreelHath's success continued in Week 6 as the Kansas City Chiefs Defense put up yet another 20+ point performance, while surviving a 29.7 point performance by Brandon Marshall, as Discount Belichick rolled past Nelson's Popped A Molly squad 128-98. The loss Nelson's 4th straight after starting the season off 2-0. Despite two past championships and past successes, this is actually the first time Creel or Hathaway have been ranked #1 during the regular season.

Hank Hullett continued his winning streak, pushing it to two on the season with a 113.5-78.1 win over Jacob's Annexation of Losing Games squad. The loss marks the second straight for Jordan as they look to regroup in Week 7 against an equally struggling Call me Brady Bunch.

The Brady Bunch did, however, snap a four game losing streak with a big win over Luck Dynasty. Riding a 38 point performance by Vernon Davis of all people, Lunsford's squad held off a powerful Peyton Manning-led Chad Hunsucker team who has remained in the top 5 of the power rankings all season.

In the final matchup of the Week, BobZane snapped a two game skid with a big win over Troy's Racists. Thanks to a big injury to Randall Cobb, BobZane got right back in the hunt and improved to 3-3, moving to just 2 games back off of the Blouses Division lead. A win would have given Troy the Shirts Division lead, but his racists are currently involved in a four-way lynching Chad, Will and reigning champ, Ashton.

The Rivalry Series continues this week with Troy vs Creel (HATH). The Troy vs Creel matchup was sanctioned as a full fledged rivalry in 2010, the history between the two has lasted since they first met in 2004. The "War Eagle" was christened as the official rivalry trophy, beating out the likes of Brett Favre's jockstrap and Brett Favre's Jersey.

CreelHath comes into this game tied for first in the league and first in the Blouses Division, while Troy's team of racists currently sits at #4 overall in the league and first in the Shirts Division. Troy looks to take back the coveted "WAR EAGLE" trophy and looks to "hang" Discount Belichick.... And possibly burn a cross in his yard while wearing white hoods.

This is it ladies and gentleman.. .this... is the Battle For the War Eagle.....

As the playoff seedings currently read on ESPN, if the playoffs started tomorrow Chad's Luck Dynasty would receive the 2nd BYE. As per our vote two weeks ago, this is just a reminder, it is the top 2 teams in the league that will receive the BYE, despite their Divisional Standings. The seedings would be altered and Discount Belichick would receive the 2nd BYE. Again, this is just a reminder so nobody is surprised if it does in fact come to pass.

The Trade Deadline is vast approaching. All trades must be proposed and accepted by 11 PM CST on Wednesday, October 23rd. With a record number of trades this season, 36 and counting, look for some wheeling and dealing to come before Wednesday. Our League Overload wants to remind you of league rule VII. <http://www.dolhalloffame.com/rules.htm> .
