

DOL LEAGUE

RETIREMENT?

Story by: DOL Beat Writer

Your DOL League Manager and long-time team owner is, for the second straight year, tossing around the idea of retirement. (From team ownership, not League Manager). A statement was released from Hath, inc. concerning the situation:

"I've backed off some of my team responsibilities last year to make way for Chad to enter the league and it's given me more time to give the league more of my attention, from a graphics and from a leadership standpoint." As was the case last year, I am once again throwing around the idea of retirement from team ownership all together. My biggest driving force was making the Hall of Fame, and thanks to my peers who voted me in for the 2013 class, that is now a reality.

I'm not sure I add anything currently to what Creel already has in place and I don't feel like the all-time wins record is ever going to be within my grasp. I will need to consult my current Head Coach (Creel) and my family before I make such a haste decision."

I would like to take this opportunity to announce B-Low's promotion to "DOL Assistant Editor". He will still keep his responsibilities as team "GM" to Lowe, inc. But in 2013 will also be involved in DOL league articles. His acceptance speech was super long and has been edited for space: "Thank you my husband (wife) who is just the joy of my life. And India (Zoe', Zack and Zane) - thank you for giving me peace because only with the peace that you've brought me have I been allowed to go to places that I never even knew I can go. "I want to thank Lion's Gate (DOL). Thank you. Mike Pasternak, (Will Spencer), Tom Ortenberg (Taf Bentley) for making sure everybody knew about this little tiny movie (Assistant Editorship). Thank you for believing in me (me). "Our director Marc Forster (Bryan Hathaway) - you're a genius - you're a genius. This movie-making (Fantasy Football) experience was magical for me (me) because of you (you). "I want to thank Yvonna Chubick (Nelson Knowles). I could have never figured out who the heck this lady (man) was without you. I love you. Thank you.

"I want to thank Lee Daniels (Jacob Jordan), our producer. Thank you for giving me this chance - for believing that I could do it.

"I want to thank my agents Josh Lieberman (Weston Lunsford) especially. (Whitson?) - thank you."

Additions to DOL HALL OF FAME.COM

Some cosmetic changes are currently happening over at www.dolhalloffame.com. Like George Lucas did with Star Wars, I have gone back through the League Summary pages of the website and added pictures from that era. I feel like this has added to the pages. Reaction has been astounding and I feel like it really adds to the site. PLEASE take the time to go over there and check out what's going on with some of the changes. I've also updated the Rules page, the Awards pages and the Inductees and Misc pages. It's worth your time, trust me.

WWE Style Pics on the way

I have done this in the past a little, (see above 2007 championship picture of myself), but I will be doing up a "WWE style" picture of all of the League members and releasing one in every week's newsletter that I publish.

I will be going in order of next year's draft, so Stephen Whitson (cough dead last in 2012) will be receiving the first treatment.
